

Service

A continuous running component in the system.

Services are usually run in a single instance which should be running at all times. Monitoring of the availability of services might therefore be relevant.